

A TALK ON CARPETS.

The reason why we sell carpets so much cheaper than others, give such value for the money, and show so good a selection of patterns is these:

We buy direct from the manufacturers and pay no commission.

We buy in such large quantities that we make it an object to the manufacturers to sell to us and get bottom prices.

We select our patterns and have them made for us, with different widths of borders and stair carpets to match.

We take advantage of every break in the market to secure bargains for our customers.

This is not the case when most purshers in this line are made, and for that very reason it is the best time for our customers to buy.

On Xmas week we reduce stock, and are ready to make special bargains on all our Indian sales. If you think of buying a carpet call and see us. We will give you prices that will make it worth your while to buy from us.

We have a full stock of HOUSE FURNISHINGS in this department, which occupies three stories of our large premises.

MADOC.

Mr. Adam Hagerly of Huntingdon, after week's illness, died Nov. 23rd. The funeral took place Sunday and was a very large one. He was buried under the auspices of Madoc Lodge I.O.O.F. The Rev. Mr. Brown, of Madoc, preached the sermon. The funeral was eloquent and earnest, and made a deep impression on the large audience. We have had very cold weather and a little north of the village there have been good sleighing. The cheese factories have all closed down for the season. In talking with some of the presidents they expressed themselves well pleased with the season's business, which has been profitable one for the stock holders. The township will be this year what it has been for the last five years, the banner township in the county for the manufacture of cheese.

THE LATE JOHN D. HAN'S WILL.

A Rich Estate Disposed of—The Ontario Government has a Heavy Succession Tax.

From the Niagara Review we learn that the will of the late John D. Han was filed with Mr. W. P. Deane, Registrar of the Surrogate Court, this week for probate. The estate is worth about $125,000, consisting of $8,475 in real estate, and the balance, $116,525, personal estate, consisting of household furniture, promissory notes and mortgages on real estate. The will is dated the 2nd July, 1892, and is witnessed by Messrs A. W. and G. R. Grange. The estate is bequeathed as follows:

To Mrs. Han, his widow, $20,000 absolutely; also all his real estate, and household furniture, etc., during her lifetime; and at her death said household furniture to his niece, Louisa Macdonald, of Detroit.

To his eldest daughter, Rose Freeman, $20,000.

To George H. Hopper, Kingston, $500.

To May Cooper, $250.

To Sarah McKean, of Philadelphia, for the education of her children, $200.

To Helen Lockwood, his aunt, $250 (not knowing her whereabouts, the will directs that advertisements be placed in the Chicago and Milwaukee papers for one month, and if the desired information can not be obtained within a year, the amount shall revert to the estate).

To Agnes Shibley, $1,000.

To Mabel Shibley, $500.

The residue of this estate is to be divided equally between his sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Finley, of Grand River, and Mrs. Jane Campbell, of Detroit, Ontario, Co., Ont.

The executors are Messrs S. J. Heydon and Harvey Warner.

The will opens with a short note to the Master, who calls upon his friends to "give the bell their hiss." The chorus responds, declaring that he is not here to cheerfully tell them he will share, and affirm that he is alone in honor who brings deepest thought to the work of his hand. All through the poem the Master tells of the progress made in forming the bell, the task is a long one and a difficult one; but the laborers find that their reward and the bell is named "Concordia," with "peace" as its first and last name. Other solo notes tell of some of the keenest sorrows and sweetest joys that make up our life, and the bell has accordingly a mirthful or sad note. The choruses are vigorous and heroic, measured and solemn, as the theme demands. Those which tell of the burning of the city during the storm, and of peace giving way to war, are masterpieces of composition.

There is no room for criticism in Romberg's interpretation of the poem, and the Philharmonic society is doing its best to give a faithful interpretation of the music.

The Great Blood and Nerve Remedy.

"The Song of the Bell."

As the average English reader may not be familiar with Schiller's "Song of the Bell," Romberg's exquisite setting of which the Philharmonic Society will render on the evening of the 7th—the following may be of interest.

The work opens with a short solo by the Master, who calls upon his friends to "give the bell their hiss." The chorus responds, declaring that he is not here to cheerfully tell them he will share, and affirm that he is alone in honor who brings deepest thought to the work of his hand. All through the poem the Master tells of the progress made in forming the bell, the task is a long one and a difficult one; but the laborers find that their reward and the bell is named "Concordia," with "peace" as its first and last name. Other solo notes tell of some of the keenest sorrows and sweetest joys that make up our life, and the bell has accordingly a mirthful or sad note. The choruses are vigorous and heroic, measured and solemn, as the theme demands. Those which tell of the burning of the city during the storm, and of peace giving way to war, are masterpieces of composition.

There is no room for criticism in Romberg's interpretation of the poem, and the Philharmonic society is doing its best to give a faithful interpretation of the music.

There was not a quorum of the City Council last night. Although the members would not wait for a quorum.

Advertisers are asked to send in their copy for the Intelligencer's Christmas number. The paper is now in the hands of the printer and will be issued in a few days.

There is no danger of the City hall not being comfortable, as it has been heated for the past two days. One could hardly believe that the room would look as pretty as it does.

At Peterborough police court yesterday, four privates of the 57th Regt. were fined for deserting their posts on parade on November 23, inspection day. They were fined $5 each.

A horse driven by Rev. S. Daw ran away on Hotel Street about 8 o'clock last night, throwing Mr. Daw out of the car. The horse was stopped at Church St. Mr. Daw was not injured.

Thousands of lives are saved annually by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. In the treatment of cough and whooping cough, the Pectoral has a most successful effect. It allays inflammation, frees the obstructed air passages, and controls the desire to cough.

The case of Foster vs. Chas. was argued in the District Court at Toronto yesterday, before Chief Justice Armour and Judge Street. Order, Q.C., and Judge Street, for the defendants, appeared from the judgment of "Palmeridge, J.", the trial judge. E. Porter (Belleville) for the plaintiffs opposed the appeal. Reserved.

STOMACH ACHES.—We all know what it is, we acquired a perfect knowledge of the same in our youth, after a cold the stomach was especially fond to touch. Our mother gave us Perry Davis' Cherry Pectoral, while she was young, and our own remedy has been discovered to this day to equal it. Old popular price, 25c. for big size bottle.

THE BEST ADVERTISEMENTS.

Many thousands of unutilized letters have reached the manufacturers of Boots of Consumption and Rheumatic diseases. Now can speak so confidently of the merits as those who have tested it.

THERE is no better, safer or more pleasant cough remedy made than Haggard's Eucalypti Balsam. It cures hoarseness, sore throat, coughs, colds, bronchitis, and asthma and lung troubles.

His patience was rewarded: the doctor came in looking at his watch, and said: "Think these boys have had enough of it. Mr. Tucker, ah? You can send them out now till tea-time."

Mr. Tucker, who had been entangling himself faithfully in intricate calculations upon the blackboard, without making a single contribution, was only too glad to take advantage of the suggestion, and Paul followed the rest into the playground with a sense of relief.

The usual "cheery" was going on there with more spirit than usual, perhaps, because the darkness allowed of practices of conversation and offered great facilities

"I'm vastly obliged to you," said Paul, and he meant it. He was now entering his assistance. He left the close little shop, crossed the road, and started off in the direction in which he had been pointed.

His steps rang out cheerfully on the path, iron-bound with frost. He was almost happy. He had been so long in the city, and he had now found a new exercise and excitement of escape and regained freedom.

He ran on, past a series of white residences, all of them in varnished palings and adorned with that material abundance of turrets, balconies, and cheap stained glass windows, which was the outward expression of the tenant's culture, and a satisfaction

The First Shipment of Fruits From FIJI, reported.

STEAKS, BACON.—A communication is now received from Mr Thomas Maitland, on his way to Canada on a visit, that the first consignment of fruit from Fiji will be delivered a few weeks hence.

The manifest of the Canadian-Australian steamer Arima received here to-day shows the trade between Canada and Australia now being carried on by the steamer service. It brought the first manifest from Fiji to Vancouver. The shipment consisted of canned salmon, tinned fruit, and other delicacies, a few cases of granulated, delicious fruit, which will be up to most Canadian tastes. The Fishery Department of the India, steamship line advise the Department of Trade and Commerce that the West India Company's trade with the British Canadian fleet is gaining great favor, especially in the Windward Islands, to which the steamship service is now being extended.

"I was looking very carefully a little while ago," he said, "and I saw that it was nearing enough not to creak, and the next moment he was outside, free to go where he would."

"But he was all, was simple enough when he came to try it; he could hardly believe at first that he really was free to go, and with much more than he needed to take him back the friendly desire to cover his retreat; free to go and confront Dick, on his own ground, and he was not so sure of it." He clearly is unwise, yet, where should he be hurt? He is a stranger, and, once he is on the train, he could be told that he should be lucky enough to catch a train without having to wait for it, and unless he did that, he would miss the train. He would be on the platform, and might be caught, before the train was due.

There was an attendant here who suspected himself of possessing, which was probably the result of the harvesting experience, and he was ready to give the man a piece of advice. "I'll go to a shop," he thought, "and change this sovereign, and ask to look at a true-tellin', then, if I find it is a true-tellin', I'll tell you, and if it is one is due for some time, I can hang about the station till it comes in."

He took this intention and went toward the town till he came to a small terrace shop, where he went into the first shop, where a stationer's and toy dealer's, with a large display of stationery, and a few comprehensible gauges, drawing slippy packets of stationery, and cards and envelopes, and a few other things, and a penny atmosphere, the proprietor, a middle-aged man with salt white face and a rich grey hair, was sitting in a high-backed chair, whistler meeting under his chin was a

A gaily dressed discovery made its way to the door, and the auctioneer said: "oh no; no connection with place. Ah, could you allow me look a moment at your watch?"

"Certainly sir; explain some one else tonight, or to-morrow, I pray. Let me see he said, consulting a table which hung on the wall, and then he said: "The time comes in at half an hour from now, that is: fifteen another door at 8.15, and then at 8.30. Then from Liverpool Street they run."

thoroughly qualified and experienced teachers, who have helped to make the BELLEVUE BUSINESS COLLEGE one of the best business colleges of Belleville, but the best in the Dominion.

The sales of the "practical, up to date COMMERCE BOOKS," issued by the Bellevue Business College, have reached the number of 275,000.

Two THOUSAND AND SEVENTY-FIVE THOUSAND is more than 30 times the number reached by any book keeping text book or accountancy book issued in Canada.

Between three and four hundred students from Belleville and vicinity attend the college for a course during the past four years. There have also been students from New Brunswick, Manitoba, Quebec, New York, Michigan, Montana, Virginia, Illinois, Florida, Colorado, Minnesota and from distant parts of the Empire.

These facts are sufficient to demonstrate the popularity of the BELLEVUE BUSINESS COLLEGE both at home and abroad.

Ladies and Gents:

I beg most respectfully to solicit your vote and influence to secure my election as Mayor of this city for the year 1894. I have had an extensive and varied, yet successful, business career in many of the most important towns and cities of the Dominion; and will experience in the duties of this city's affairs as one of the Alder of the City Council, and am familiar with duties devolving on one occupying such a position. I have been a member of the Council, and yours, when in the Council, of the City, and the economy, without sacrificing principle or efficiency, and my efforts have been attended with success. Believing, then, that my business experience and familiarity with the duties of municipal life fully qualify me for the position, and undertaking to pursue the lines which show success in the past, I confidently ask to place me in a position to give you the benefit of such experience.

Yours respectfully,

Bellefleur, on the ground of adultery,
MIKEL & ROBERTS,
Solicitors for Applicant
JOSEPH THOMPSON
Dated at Bellefleur, and Province of Ontario
the 23rd day of July, 1899. 700

Nov. 23. On the 24th Mr. Stableford drove him to the city as far as the Woods, where Mr. Whittel said "Good-bye, say he was going to see a man in his neighborhood who might give him work."

Mr. Wherry appeared in the Police Court yesterday morning. When the Magistrate called his name he stood up. He was tall, light colored, slender, closely buttoned joker. A man who thought it would be funny to startle the worshippers sat on the floor in the church and caused a riotous scene. It is probable that the authorities will compel the man to pay dearly for his joke.

Belleville, Dec. 27, 1893.

THE LATE DONALD MURPHY, of Chicago.

After long years of absence from his native land, Donald Murphy has returned, but not as we knew him last. Some thirty years ago he went forth from Belleville a gallant young man, whose stalwart frame, fine face and erect figure, compelled the admiring gaze of all the beauty and strength of youth and vigor, to sleep for a season on the bosom of his boat, as he lay on the shore he had passed the brightest days of his life. Many will join us in mourning for him.

Mr. Murphy, who died at his home in Chicago on Christmas day, was a victim of the grip. He remained in bed for some days in charge of his wife, and his two daughters, who were visiting in Belleville, saw their father's form for the last time on earth. The body was seen by St. John's church, where it was viewed by many friends of the deceased. Amongst the relatives and intimate friends who were present, were his sister Mrs. Chamberlain, (Agnes Moore), Mrs. Dunn, Lakeside, and Miss Fitzgibbon, Brighton.

The beautiful burial service of the Church of England was conducted by the Rev. Dr. F. Rogers, Rector of the church, and at 3 o'clock the procession started for the cemetery. The bearers were J. C. Jamieson, Geo. Thompson, W. H. Campbell, Irish Thompson, D. B. Robertson, Col. Brown.

RECOVERED. Dec. 30.—Word was received yesterday from South Bay, Mich., that Mrs. Paonoli, mother of Mrs. W. Paonoli, had been found dead in a chicken coop at the Michigan Hotel. The body was found by a maid who reported it to the hotel manager. The police are investigating the case.

Mrs. Paonoli had been missing since December 6, and yesterday her body was found in the chicken house. When dug up the body presented a ghastly appearance. The body was found by a maid who reported it to the hotel manager. The police are investigating the case.

Mrs. Paonoli was the dead woman's third husband. The names of his predecessors being Thomas Walker and Archibald Morrison. Both the latter were known to the police. The police are investigating the case.

When informed last night by the police that Mrs. Paonoli had been found dead in a chicken coop at the Michigan Hotel. The body was found by a maid who reported it to the hotel manager. The police are investigating the case.

Mrs. Paonoli was an Irish woman. During the last 15 years she has been in contact with her husband, and it is a point at issue between her sons and those of Paonoli who was the aggressor.

A South Bay dispatch says: Nobody believes that Paonoli murdered the woman. He probably struck her more violently than he intended. The police are investigating the case.
